

Blood stem cells

Blood stem cells are made in the aorta of the embryo. In adults they are found in the bone marrow, but their exact location is still unknown. This image shows progenitor cells (in the yellow circle) that will make the stem cells found in the aorta of the embryo.

Image: Antoniana Batsivari